Dear OASIS User,
Northrop Grumman has conducted a review of our OASIS supplier content and has realigned some of the OASIS content in order to make the site easier to navigate and find the information you are seeking.

What's changed?

Most of the content that was contained in the OASIS site has been retained. In a few instances outdated documents and forms have been removed. The documents and forms that remain have been realigned into consolidated, easier to navigate pages. You no longer need to know which Northrop Grumman sector you are working with in order to find your document. In the few cases where a document is specific to a particular sector, the sector name is clearly identified in the document title.

What else should I know?

It's possible that the URL for some documents has changed. If you had a bookmark for a specific document that no longer works, you can try manually navigating to the document from the OASIS home page. Alternatively, contacts are listed under Help and Resources - Contacts that can assist you in locating the document.

Thank you for your continued support,

Northrop Grumman OASIS Team
